AGEND AT HOME
Seniors usually prefer to stay at home rather than in a hospital, nursing home, or care facility. We’ve helped:

• Advocate for improvements to the city’s paratransit program so older adults can continue to travel independently.

• Train home-care workers to better assist aging clients with specialized needs.

• Develop programs to help seniors manage their money and connect with peers.

GET MOVING: With our support, Lifetime Arts is improving arts and culture offerings at senior centers throughout the city.

PROMOTE HEALTH AND WELLNESS
To make sure seniors stay healthy, we’ve helped:

• Organize older adults to be leaders in their communities, bringing healthy eating to public housing developments and nurturing community gardens, for example.

• Provide mental health care, counseling, and other services in naturally occurring retirement communities.

IMPROVE SENIOR CENTERS
Growing old can be lonely. Our grants help the city’s senior centers meet the needs of diverse older adults. We’ve helped:

• Bring health services, art classes, and leadership opportunities to senior centers in low-income neighborhoods.

• Strengthen centers that support LGBTQ seniors, retired artists, and Latino and South Asian communities.

LIVING WITH SUPPORT: The Trust is dedicated to supporting elders who are homebound or need extra aid.

KEEPING OUR CITY AGING-FRIENDLY
As we age, it can become difficult to stay active in our urban environments. To ensure accessibility, we’ve helped:

• Make sidewalks and transit easier to negotiate for older adults.
• Provide opportunities for active seniors to improve their neighborhoods through beautifying parks and artistic activities.
• Encourage local businesses to be senior-friendly by ensuring accessibility, providing delivery and shopping guides, and offering age-oriented classes (such as yoga and self-defense).

SERVING FRAIL ELDERS
For New York’s elders who are unable to continue living without support, we’ve helped:

• Develop programs to help seniors who need legal guardians.
• Create guides to help vulnerable seniors and their families discuss end-of-life care.
• Expand visiting services for homebound elders.

The New York Community Trust is a grantmaking foundation dedicated to improving the city and its suburbs. It connects individuals, families, foundations, and businesses with vital nonprofits working to make a healthy, equitable, and thriving community, today and tomorrow.
